Washington, D.C. - Church's Partners Foundation, Inc., the non-profit arm of the popular chicken chain Church's Chicken®, was recently recognized at the International Franchise Association \(IFA\) Educational Foundation's Franchising Gives Back Awards, held at the JW Marriott in the nation's capital. This year marked the inaugural Franchising Gives Back Awards ceremony, where organizations were showcased for their charitable contributions and initiatives.

Church's Partners Foundation, Inc. took home the Gold Newcomer Award during the ceremony for their educational contributions through the Church's® Scholars Program. The Church's Scholars Program is a merit-based educational program that provides $1,000 scholarships to high school seniors to use toward their college tuition at an accredited college, university or vocational school.

"It is such a great honor to be recognized by the IFA for our Scholars Program," said Ed Brett, President of the Church's Partners Foundation and Chief People Officer for the brand. "Receiving this prestigious award validates our efforts within the communities we serve and allows us to focus on growing the program to assist even more deserving students."

Launched in 2014, the Church's Scholars Program has awarded more than 225 high school seniors with $1,000 scholarships. Each year, funds for the Scholars Program are raised through franchisee contributions and the sale of coupon booklets at participating Church's restaurants.

"Receiving this award is a true testament to our commitment of providing opportunities for young adults who are looking to continue their education," said Sherry Ulsh, Church's Partners Foundation Board Member and Senior Director, Operations and Marketing Finance at Church's Chicken. "It is incredibly rewarding to be recognized by the IFA and we look forward to continuing to create a lasting impact within the lives of these students."
